I. CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT

A. Classroom rules

1. Observe all of the rules in the student handbook.
2. Observe the rules in each classroom.

B. If you choose to break a rule-

Our school has chosen to follow the Responsive Classroom approach to learning which uses logical consequences to encourage proper behavior. A logical consequence is related to the behavior, and is designed to help students learn from their mistakes and develop self-discipline. Consequences may involve (but are not limited to) a comment, time away from the group to regain self-control, an apology of action, fixing a problem, redoing of work, loss of a privilege, a parent phone call, a notification form, detention with a teacher, and/or conferences with the principal. See Appendix A (page 6) for the ICS Detention Policy.

C. Snack-

At the discretion of each teacher, students may be given the privilege to have a working snack each day. The snack must be neat (dry, no utensils required) and healthy. Do not bring drinks (except water). Students should avoid bringing in snacks with peanuts or other ingredients that may cause allergic reactions in classmates. There will be no sharing of snacks. It is not safe to consume food in the science lab or art room, so if a student's scheduled snack time is during one of these classes, an attempt will be made to reschedule snack time for that day. Failure to follow snack rules will result in the loss of this privilege.

D. Water bottles-

Students may bring in a water bottle; however, it must be clearly labeled with the student's initials. Every day, several full or partially full water bottles are left unclaimed in each classroom. We now have water refill stations built into our water fountains, so please consider a reusable water bottle clearly labeled with your child's name.

E. Leaving the classroom-

Students are required to sign out in the appropriate logs whenever leaving the classroom (lavatory, nurse, band, office, etc.). Students must include where they are going and sign back in when they return to the room. If a student is gone long enough to miss work, it is the student's responsibility to find out what was missed and hand in the work when it is due. Excessive trips to the nurse's office will be reported to the student's parents.

F. Organization-

Students are expected to keep their notebook/binders organized. Backpacks are only to be used for transporting materials to and from school, not between classes. String bags must be used to transport Chromebooks between classes. There should be no papers floating in desks, textbooks, binders, notebooks, or on classroom shelves. Students are expected to refill their supplies as needed (notebook paper, pencils, pens, etc.)

II. HOMEWORK

A. Grading-

Homework is an important component of education. Homework is designed to help students understand or practice a particular concept. It needs to be done when it is assigned or it loses much of its value.

B. Excused homework-

It is understood that there are days when it is close to impossible to get all assignments completed; therefore, ONE excused homework assignment will be allowed per marking period per subject. An excused homework assignment does not mean that it does not need to be completed. It simply means that it may be handed in one day late without it being recorded as late. A student must bring in a note signed by his or her parent on the due date of the assignment with an explanation of why the homework was not completed.

III. GRADING SYSTEM

A. Assessments-

Grades will be based on a variety of assessments, which may include journals, class work, lab reports (science), projects, presentations, writing assignments, quizzes and tests. If a teacher requests a written version of the homework, it should NOT be emailed or printed in school unless previous arrangements have been made or there are extenuating circumstances.

B. Late assignments-

Daily assignments are due on the due date. Students may be required to meet with the teacher to discuss why the assignment was not completed and to complete the assignment. Please hand your work in on time!

Long term projects and assignments are also due on the due date. Ten percent will be deducted for each day the assignment is late. Planning time with the teacher will be necessary if a long-term assignment is not turned in on time.

C. Graded work-

Tests, quizzes, and other graded work may be needed to study for midterms and/or finals. Keep all work in a safe, accessible place. A teacher may request that tests and projects be signed by a parent and returned the next day.

D. Extra credit-

At the teacher's discretion, there may be opportunities to earn extra credit throughout each marking period. Extra credit may not be allowed if all regular assignments have not been turned in. Extra credit is not a last-minute chance to raise a grade.

E. PowerSchool-

It is important to check PowerSchool on a weekly basis. This is the primary tool for parents to monitor and keep up with student progress. Using the PowerSchool software, it is possible for you to arrange for weekly reports to be automatically emailed. Through use of the PowerSchool APP, there are many options for notifications to suit your needs.

V. ABSENTEE FORMS AND ASSIGNMENTS

A. Absentee notification-

A parent must notify the school when a student is absent by using the online reporting system on the ICS website.

B. Missed work-

When a student is absent he/she should contact a friend to gather any classwork and/or homework that is assigned. The buddy will write down the assignments and gather the books together so the homework can be sent home with a sibling or picked up after school in the office. If the work is not picked up, the student will get the work on the first day back.

New assignments--A student will have the number of days that he/she is absent to make up newly assigned work. If a student is absent when a test is assigned, it is the responsibility of the student to meet with the teacher to determine when the quiz or test will be made up.

Previous assignments—Any work assigned before a student is absent is due upon the student's return or the following day. This also applies to quizzes or tests that the student was aware of prior to his or her absence. It is the responsibility of the student to notify the teacher that he or she has missed a quiz or test, and to make it up as soon as possible. If a student comes in late or leaves early the day of a quiz or test, the student should be prepared to take the quiz or test when he or she returns to school or before he or she leaves.

Long term assignments--If a student is absent the day a long-term assignment is due, it is expected that the project will be turned in upon return. A student does not receive extra days for long term projects if he/she is absent. If a student comes in late or leaves early the day a long-term assignment is due, the assignment MUST be turned in that day when the student arrives at school or before he or she leaves.

C. It is ultimately the student's responsibility to find out what was missed and to make the work up on time. A student should ask the teacher if he/she missed any work while absent.

The student must place his or her phone on the teacher's desk for the duration of the detention. The teacher on detention duty will monitor the student during the detention.

Students may not postpone a detention due to an ICS after school activity. These include but are not limited to: after school classes, play rehearsal or the play, sports activities sponsored by the school, archery, Ultimate Frisbee, or Reading Olympics. Students may be dismissed to their activity at the conclusion of the detention.

Three detentions in any one marking period will be deemed as excessive and carry additional consequences. If a student receives three or more detentions in one marking period there must be a meeting with the teacher(s), parent(s), and principal to make a plan on how to move forward. Detention process:

- Teacher issues detention.
- Detention/Notification form, alerting parents of the detention, is sent home for student and parent signature and must be returned the next day to the homeroom teacher. If a detention is issued, parent is required to check the appropriate box on the form as to how the child will be dismissed.
- Teacher will give the principal a copy of the signed detention form and to the detention teacher on duty.

School handbook--

Electronic readers (Nook, Kindle) are ONLY allowed for reading, not internet access. Parents must sign a waiver indicating that the school is not liable for any damage that may occur to the device. Any misuse of the e-reader will result in the loss of privilege for the remainder of the school year.

Vacations during the school year are strongly discouraged. Students are responsible for learning the material missed while absent and meeting with teachers
